I. C. C. ORDERS LOWER RAIL RATES ON SOFT COAL
Washington, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered new and lower rates of bituminous coal considered as suitable for anthracite substitution on shipments from Virginia and Southern West Virginia territory to the Atlantic seaboard.

$75,000 WORTH OF ALE SEIZED ON RAILROAD
New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Four prohibition agents seized two shipments of Canadian ale, valued at about $75,000, today in the West Farms and Oak Point freight yards of the New Haven Railroad. The ale was concealed beneath shipments of farm produce.

DRY'S CHALLENGE "MA" TO PROVE CHARGES

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The Texas Anti-Saloon League today challenged Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to "make good" on her offer of a reward of $500 for the conviction of every liquor law violator worth more than $5,000. Through the Rev. Atticus Webb, superintendent, the league offered to "take down the reward as fast as the Governor can put it up, until her funds are exhausted." Mr. Webb said that if Mrs. Ferguson knows of a district judge who is violating the law she should put the case up to Attorney-General Dan Moody.

SEIZURE OF COAL MINES TO GO BEFORE CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 29.—Power for the President to take over and operate anthracite mines in time of a national emergency would be conferred under a bill which Senator Borah is preparing to introduce in the Senate. Representative Dargatzis, of Wisconsin, announced today that he would introduce a bill authorizing seizure and operation of coal mines.

Mine Owners Ready to Answer Pinchot's Proposal

Philadelphia, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Anthracite operators promised to make known late today their answer to Governor Pinchot's proposal for ending the hard coal strike which has already been accepted by the mine workers as a "basis of settlement."

In the meantime not an inkling of what the reply to the Governor's plan has been allowed to become public. The greatest secrecy was thrown about the movements of the various members of the operators' committee, today and their meeting place was also kept from newspapermen.

It was learned that the proposal of the Governor does not meet the ready acceptance by the operators that Pinchot's plan did not provide for a possible reduction in wages, only for an increase.

FIANCEE OF ITALIAN NOBLEMAN KNOWN AS EXPERT HORSEWOMAN

Lenox, Nov. 30.—The engagement of Miss Theresa Higginson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson, Jr., of Lenox and Chicago, to Count Gian Giulio Ruscellai of Florence, Italy, was announced here today.

Miss Higginson is widely known in Lenox and Boston society and has an enviable reputation as a horsewoman. She is a graduate of Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn. Ruscellai is the son of Count and Countess Casimiro Ruscellai and is connected with the oldest titled families of Italy. The Countess Ruscellai was formerly Edith Brown of New York City.

Miss Higginson, granddaughter of the late Major Henry L. Higginson of Boston, made her debut in Chicago in 1923. She is a member of the Lenox Club and the Lake Mahomet Boat Club.

Miss Higginson has been with her parents at the estate, Rock Lawn, during the past summer and has taken a leading part in the social and sports activities of the colony.

No date has been set for the wedding.

RUM QUEEN SUSPECT SET FREE BY MISTAKE

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 29.—For weeks Federal officers laid in a trap, waiting to capture Mrs. Hilda Stone, alleged "Queen of the Bootleggers," and at last they caught her, only to have a fullstop let her go through a misunderstanding.

Now the Federal officers are faced with the task of her capture all over again.

Mrs. Stone, who is recorded as from Cohasset, Mass., was arrested in a powerful touring car with Henry Murdock of Holyoke, Mass., and

COLDEST NOVEMBER FINISH IN 20 YEARS

November handed New England a stinging reminder that it is still to be numbered among the winter months today, the coldest day of the season and the coldest November 31 in twenty years.

A glare of ice on lake and pond and brook was the greeting while the morning breeze had a tang of the Arctic in its breath.

came at 7 this morning when the mercury fell to fourteen in Boston, though unofficial thermometers gave lower readings.

A cold wave suddenly fell on the whole Eastern section of the country and out on the broad Atlantic with New England as its exact center.

NEW GLEW MINISTER TO RIVER HAS TOWN SUICIDE BY EARS

Mother Believes the Victim Was Springfield Man Who Had Been in Asylum

Springfield, Nov. 30.—The man who stepped out of an automobile on Memorial Bridge and dove 125 feet to his death in the icy waters of the Connecticut River, while the automobile was driven away, is believed to have been George V. Sheehan, twenty-eight, of this city.

While policemen were searching the river banks for the body, Sheehan's mother telephoned to headquarters that her son, who was formerly an inmate of a State Hospital, was missing.

She said she sat up at night awaiting his return. Treading in the pawers of the mysterious incident in the bridge, she concluded.

DILL ALWAYS APPLY FOR CHARTER

Amusement Ship Enters First to Be Tried Out at Miami

Boston is to have a floating inn, aglow with lights, replete with food, and gay with dancers if a group of Boston capitalists are able to secure a State charter.

Today at the office of Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook the sponsors of the new enterprise, known as the North and South Floating Inn Company, sought the charter. Two lawyers are officers, G. Lincoln Dillway, Jr., of Melrose and No. 84 State street, being president, and G. Lincoln Dillway, Sr., one of the directors. The treasurer is Edith D. Hill of Roxbury and No. 84 State street, and the capital stock is $200,000.

Already the company has a steamer under option in New York and the company is granted its charter before immediately the great pleasure boat will be put into commission and taken to Miami where it will be anchored in some accessible spot off the coast.

If the winter season is successful there is likelihood that Boston will have a floating inn and cabaret in the next season according to President Dillway.

The charter gives the company the privilege of buying, building, chartering, hiring or owning boats and vessels to carry passengers and freight in any waters to use all docks, berths and buildings in connection with the enterprise to conduct amusement enterprises on land or water, including dance halls, picture entertainments, theatrical productions and cabarets; to sell food.

Clara Minidollers of East Boston may not live, doctors say. She was badly hurt when the car, driven by her father, was in collision with another. Her sister and brother also were hurt.

FROST TIES UP SUBWAY

A frozen air brake stalled an inbound trolley car on the incline leading into the Tremont street subway at the Public Gardens today, tying up traffic for half an hour on the Huntington avenue lines.

Hundreds of rush-hour passengers from the Back Bay, Roxbury, Jamaica Plain and Brookline left the stalled cars and walked downtown. A wrecking crew, summoned from the Charlestown shops, had to thaw the brakes before the car could be moved.

STANDARD OIL RAISES "GAS" PRICE TO 20 CENTS

An advance in the price of crude oil has resulted in an increase of the tank wagon and retail price of gasoline to 17 and 20 cents respectively, effective tomorrow, is announced by the Standard Oil Company of New York. The Colonial Filling Stations will also raise their prices. The Texas and Gulf Refining companies are expected to raise their prices accordingly tomorrow.

—we thank you!

THE TUMULT DIES—but the shouting has just begun—for the success of Sales Manager's Record Day will be shouted the length and breadth of New England by those who were here Saturday!

Not only by those who were here, but among merchants throughout the country. For a department store to sell $382,089 worth of merchandise in one day is a remarkable achievement, and Sales Manager's Record Day will be a topic of conversation among retail merchants everywhere for many a day to come!

—A Vote of Confidence!

WE FEEL that such a volume of business is a tremendous vote of confidence. No store could hope to attain such a total in one day's selling unless it enjoyed to the fullest the confidence of the community. Confidence in our merchandise—in our values—in our service.

We are deeply appreciative of our responsibility to the people who evidenced their belief in this store by thronging to the sale Saturday.

Our facilities were taxed almost to the utmost. We sincerely trust that none of those who attended were seriously inconvenienced by the tremendous crowds.

—A Word About Those Who Served!

AND FINALLY—mention of the day would not be complete without an expression of our appreciation of the faithful, splendid service given by the store helpers—not only our regular force, but the hundreds of extras who came to us for this day. We owe everything to the public—and to them.

$382,089 in one day! The "half-million dollar" mark is not far off!

WOMAN, 72, IS FIRE VICTIM

Viola G. Lewis, seventy-two years old, of Somerville, is in a hospital with burns about the head and hands suffered early today when flames swept through the three-story wooden dwelling at 203-205A Summer street, Somerville.

She was rescued by Putnam Francis P. Higgins and firmers after becoming bewildered by thick smoke and excitement. She was in bed when aroused by shouts of "fire." She started to leave the first floor, where she resides with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barber, but opened the collar door instead, suffering burns.

Other tenants in the house were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Westlund and daughters, Doris and Mildred, on the second floor, and Mr. and Mrs. 554 Drew on the third.

DEMAND NEW TRIAL IN SUIT WON BY MINISTER

Charge and counter-charge came in Federal Court today as the aftermath of the award of $15,000 to Rev. John P. Lillback of Gulgutha Congregational Church of Brooklyn, in his suit against the Worcester Journal newspaper. The Worcester Journal, which publishes the paper, asked a new trial, and December 21 was set for hearing. The minister charged that since the award the paper had been guilty of contempt in three issues, November 11 and 18, and that it has criticized the court.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE BAZAAR

"That our dumb animal friends may be better cared for"

To that end the large hangar room of the Copley Plaza today has been transformed into a dandier bazaar where everything from fancy articles to cakes, candies and toys is being sold for the benefit of the Animal Rescue League.

And not only in this annual Animal Rescue League fair a most where useful articles and Christmas presents may be bought, it is a lunching place and a tea room, too, which is attracting the steps of many of Greater Boston's elite. Patrons for the tea today are Mrs. George Arliss and Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, while nattering among the guests will be the entire membership of the George Arliss company.

Out of the most entertaining tables of the many strewn about the large hall was the grab in the shape of a Noah's Ark, with Mrs. Eleanor Gromer as Mrs. Noah and a bevy of charming little girls in animal or bird costumes, as her assistants. The little girls were Elizabeth E. Allen, as a parrot; Blanche Tarlin, as a rabbit; Pauline Kaplan, as a kitten; Sara Berenson, as a parrot; and Barbara Berenson, as a puppy.

CURLEY URGES BAN ON MORE BURG LINES IN HUB

Mayor Curley today sent a letter to the City Council advocating that no new licenses be granted to individual or company to operate motor bus lines in competition with existing railroad and street car companies.

The Mayor made the point that the private-owned business would be compelled to change their schedules according to the weather, and on some occasions would be compelled to curtail service entirely, thus embarrassing the business of the city.

He also stressed that the Boston Elevated road, the New Haven and Boston & Maine roads all pay large taxes to Boston, to Massachusetts and to the national government.

CHILD BURNED WHILE AT PLAY IN HER HOME

Two-year-old Elizabeth Hennessy of No. 218 Townsend street, Roxbury, was burned when fire started in a pile of clothing in a closet of her home today.

Mrs. Doris Hennessy, the baby's mother, smelled smoke and running to the closet found a break flame in one corner. Elizabeth's face and hands were burned and her hair singed before her mother could seize her.

The child was taken to city Hospital for treatment. Firemen extinguished the blaze quickly. The damage was slight.

POLICEMAN FINED FOR MISAPPROPRIATING "GAS"

Putnam Richard P. Keyes of Dudley street station, Roxbury, was today discharged from the police force for conduct unbecoming an officer. Keyes recently was found guilty of misappropriating gas from a Humboldt avenue filling station.

2 ROOFERS FALL 50 FEET; BOTH ARE DYING

Staging Gives Way While
They Are at Work on Church

Two aged roofers are dying in the Boston City Hospital, where they were taken after dropping 50 feet to the ground from the roof of the United Congregational Church, Columbus avenue and West Newton street, when the staging gave way at noon. Hundreds saw the two fall. Both were picked up nearby.

The victims were Henry Pelham, 75, of Chelsea, and John Irwin, 68, of Roslindale. A stiff cold wind made their fall somewhat hazardous. Pelham has a fractured skull and a fractured spine. Irwin has a fractured skull and multiple body lacerations. Neither is expected to recover.

SANTA WANTS TO SEE EVERY CHILD

Dear Girls and Boys of Greater Boston:

Not at last my second visit to alluring and comfortable Boston Common, and I want every boy and girl that can to come and get acquainted with Stetson and the rest. Bring your Laurel Ma. Then you won't be afraid of the reindeer Christmas Eve. If any of you should happen to be awake, I brought my reindeer down to Boston at the request of the Boston Evening American, a month early, especially to have the children see them—so come one and all, little boys and girls.

Train service suffered slightly on account of the cold weather. On the Boston & Maine one train from Haverhill and one from Portland were several minutes late, due to low steam, directly attributable to the cold snap. On the Boston & Albany the Twentieth Century Limited, crack through express, was nearly an hour late—fifty-five minutes, to report. The delay was caused by a box car in one of the sleeping cars.

The Colonial express, on the New Haven route, was scheduled to leave the South Station for Washington at a clock, was sixteen minutes late leaving. Just as the train was about to back over from the Davenport street yards it was found necessary to make up a new train, which caused the delay of the express.

ENGINE DERAILED.

Several trains on the Plymouth division were from fifteen to seven minutes late in arriving at the South Station, due to the derailment at South Braintree of the engine of the train due in Boston at 7:51.

The Ohio Valley felt the cold wave to some extent, but there it generated into snow flurries. Inhabitants there flurried as on their way in our general direction, and according to the local press, we are to have flurries of the rain or sleet rain or the early hours tomorrow will, a rise in temperature.

WHY?

I WILL NOT—SO THERE

Why are they called Molly Coddies?

A "Molly Coddler" is one that holds its tempering or setting, more or less. It is largely applied to the male sex.

There are men who need much coddling before they will yield. They must be handled in their own way with care and discretion. When so treated, they begin to yield to your demands, whatever they may be.

Molly is a girl's name and stands in this relation to Mary and Coddler for efficiency.

A Molly Coddler is an effeminate sort of individual who lacks the ordinary courage and "nerve" and must be handled after the manner of treating a woman.

A Molly Coddler is perfectly sincere but he despises the term you have assigned him. While his actions betray him, he will resent the name with the best that he commands in condemning it.

What's your Why? The "Why" Editor of the Boston Evening American will answer it.

OCEAN FILERS AT ISSUE WITH MITCHELL

Richardson and Connell Uphold Pacific Flight and Arctic Planes

Washington, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Naval aviators took their turn today in replying before the Mitchell court martial to Colonel William Mitchell's charges of inefficiency in government aviation.

Appearing for the prosecution, Commander H. C. Richardson, who took part in the attempt to cross the Atlantic in 1923, laid the court of that flight and testified also that the planes given the MacMillan Arctic Expedition last summer were as capable as any in existence for this work, although they had been sent North without completion of preliminary tests.

The story of the effort of the P-5 No. 1 to fly to Hawaii was related by Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, a member of her crew, who denied that non-flying officers had made any arrangements not approved by Commander John Rodgers, the flight captain.

Asked why there was no station ship at the point where the P-5 No. 1 came down, Lieutenant Connell said:

"There was an error in radio bearings given us by the Aroostook."

On cross-examination, Commander Richardson conceded that the Loran amphibian planes were used to MacMillan before they had undergone complete service tests. He said instructions had been given the pilots to report any difficulties and to be ready for safety reasons before the machines were used in the Arctic.

Lieutenant Connell said he considered 200 miles "a proper distance" apart for the station ships, and recalled the P-5 type of airplane "the best type of patrol plane in existence."

AN ECONOMICAL POTATO SUBSTITUTE

I have had a great study regarding lately for suggestions regarding vegetables that can be placed in place of the expensive potato. Among these substitutes are lima beans, dumplings, sweet potatoes, eggplants, brown rice, and lentils with the gravy and left-over meat poured over it. I think the three most important of these substitutes are the sweet potatoes, eggplants, and lentils. I am sure that you will be as glad as I am to see our good friends, the G. P. Mueller Company, manufacturers of this line of food products, represented on our page again today.

It is always a pleasure to call particular attention to our products, for no matter how long you keep them, they are always sure to be fresh, wholesome and tasty. This is because the Mueller package is air tight and moisture proof. The carton itself is lined with paraffin, and between the carton and the moisture-proof eggplants or dumplings is placed a sheet of waxed paper, so that the carton is really completely enclosed and truly sealed, which keeps the contents fully flavored, fresh and free from all deterioration and contamination.

Of course you know that sweetened and unsweetened eggplants are among the most nourishing foods yet put out. For building up vigor, for strength and vigor in the whole family, they have no equal. Being made from the heart of the sweet potato, they contain the best elements that build flesh, tone, red blood and bone.

They are so delicious, so easily digested and so satisfying, are adapted to the dairy water, the soured or the sweetened.

I have some really beautiful recipe books sent to me by the Mueller Company for our club members. These are attractive, it is printed in color and will give you and your family a new and interesting way of preparing delicious, economical uses for these wonderful products.

MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI ROYAL

1 pkg. Mueller's spaghetti 13c 1/2 lb. minced sharp cheese 10c
1/2 lb. tomato 10c 1 can Campbell's Tomato soup 12c

Pan broil the bacon, parboil the Mueller's spaghetti 7 minutes in boiling salted water. Be sure that the water is boiling rapidly when the spaghetti is put in. 1 tablespoon of butter added to the water gives the spaghetti an excellent flavor. This spaghetti does not need to be blanched.

Place a layer of the spaghetti in the bottom of a buttered baking dish, dot with pieces of cheese and bacon. Then another layer of spaghetti, etc., until all the material is used up. Stir the chopped onion into the tomato soup and pour this over the top of the spaghetti and bake in moderate oven for 15 minutes.

Total cost of Mueller's Spaghetti Royal, 53c. Serves 4. Cost per person, 13 1/2c.

PRUNE PUDDING With WHIPPED CREAM

2 cups dried prunes 10c 2 tbsp. corn starch 1c
1/2 cup sugar 2c 1 tbsp. water
2 egg yolks 1c 1 cup prune juice
2 egg whites 6c 1/2 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. of sugar 1/2 tsp. cinnamon, 2c

Wash the prunes and soak them over night with enough cold water to cover. Simmer in some water until tender. Remove the stones, cut into quarters and drain and measure the juice. Add 1/2 cup of sugar to the prunes and corn starch with the colored prune juice. Cook 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour this mixture over the beaten yolks of eggs. Then stir in vanilla and cinnamon. Mix well together and turn into buttered baking dish. Beat the egg whites stiff with remaining tablespoon of sugar. Spread them over the top of the pudding. Bake for 15 minutes in a slow oven and when egg whites brown, fold them into the pudding. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Total cost of Prune Pudding, 33c. Serves 4. Cost per person, 8c.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT IN CLUB ROOM

Of course you have noticed that the sixth prize in this month's WNAC American Women's Club Contest is a complete bathroom equipment in genuine Shon-Wite enamel. This prize is donated by the Standard Plate Glass Company and if you are building or thinking of replacing some of the battered bathroom fixtures of your present home, I know you will find reward for a special trip up to our Club room to see this interesting exhibit.

It includes a large plate glass mirror, vanity cabinet, shelf, soap dishes, towel racks, hooks, etc. The complete set of 11 pieces may be ordered from your grocer Christmas for $25.00. These bathroom beautifiers are just as substantial as a porcelain enamel tub. The towel bars are made of heavy steel enamel tubing. Shon-Wite, you know, never cracks, chips or discolors. Once installed, these fixtures will last as long as the building stands. It is very easy to attach them to cement or plaster walls and they readily adjust themselves in perfect harmony to any wall arrangement.

They come in beautiful type in beautifully simple artwork lines, square and right angles or in the graceful curves of the Colonial type. Then there are the less expensive Junior bathroom fixtures just as attractively guaranteed as the larger, heavier members of the Shon-Wite family.

I have some beautiful booklets on these bathroom fittings, medicine cabinets, mirrors and mirror combinations giving complete prices and photographs, and I will be delighted to send you a copy if you will drop me a line.

A Girl's Soul Stirs and She Wonders Why; Going Out Into the World to Learn of Love

NANCY HAWTHORNE, motherless, lives in an English country village with her father. She has an experience with Carly Collins, a country boy she has befriended. She discusses what occurs with her father. Then comes a strange stirring and she decides to see the world. In Paris she meets Cornelia Evans, daughter of an American millionaire. The girls form a studio partnership. They give a housewarming. Nancy meets Jean de Courcy, French cavalry lieutenant, who pursues Cornelia. She also meets Count de Bercy Mormal, a man who accosted her in the street. The count is Cornelia's brother-in-law. Nancy scornfully rejects his friendship. Lloyd Evans, Cornelia's brother, and his chum, Bob Whitaker, Oxford undergraduates, telegraph they're coming to Paris. Nancy is strangely affected by the news. Bob comes. Nancy fancies him. Then it dawns on her that she wants to know him better. The girls meet the boys at St. Malo.

B. C. GAME WITH GEORGETOWN
IS OFF

Basketball Makes Debut Tonight

Major league basketball makes its debut in the Hub tonight. The Eastern American league quietly entered its first season by taking off Rochester, N. Y., at the Arena. A lot of game should result at the local box, as the contestants are evenly matched.

Rochester has in its line up two great forwards in Max Baumbach and Ed Sadowski. In addition, set shot hand Neil Johnson is a first class man. From their own basket, a center team can't "Duke" Greenleaf, one of the greatest guards in the league will be in the London line. In the back, peaked Johnny Brechman can handle an occasion as the center wouldn't penetrate the defensive line to any great extent.

CAV GETS INTO DEBATE OVER FOOTBALL

Major Frank Conrath, 1st Cavalry Division, said the Harvard students' conduct was "a disgrace to the Harvard name." He said the students' behavior was "a disgrace to the Harvard name."

COOK COOS by Ted Cook

FEDERAL authorities at Washington, D. C. have ordered the deportation of Lieke Martens, a German-born woman, to Germany. Martens is said to be a spy.

Consider the consequences: Dozens of newspaper headline operators will suffer nervous breakdowns, and beat their wives. Courts will be clogged with divorce actions.

Countless proofreaders will drop dead from heart failure, thus throwing insurance companies into bankruptcy.

Numerous Government clerks will suffer writer's cramp, and face starvation, with disastrous results for credit grocers.

The nation's supply of writing ink will be suddenly exhausted, consequently paralyzing the nation's business.

Wall Street will totter.

And still the Pollyannas prate of optimism.

Guard Ballot Boxes in Mr. America Contest

This is Nick Carter, fearless detective, who was appointed last night to take command of Boy Scouts, who will guard the ballot boxes in the Mr. America contest. As the contest drew to a close last night, contestants ran frantically from house to house, ringing door bells. They were seeking conferences with the judges, assembled here from all parts of the United States, to cast their secret ballots in the Electoral Seminary. Little groups of betting men gathered on the street corners, laying wagers that Julian Eltinge, Old Doc Cobb, Charlie the Barker and Gerald Chapman would lead on the first call.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped when Other Medicines Failed

Walpole, N. H.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it has improved my health for months and months. I was not regular and suffered from terrible pains. They used to affect my side so I could not work. I read of others being helped by the Vegetable Compound and thought it might help me. I am very much better now, strong enough to do my own housework, and have two dear babies to care for besides. I tried other medicines before taking the Vegetable Compound but I was never treated for my troubles. I speak highly of the Vegetable Compound to my friends and recommend it to any woman for regularity and nervous condition."—Mrs. T. H. FULLER, Walpole, N. H.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

A recent census reports 98 out of every 100 women who have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa
"FOXY GRANDPA," said Bobby, "wasn't it a good thing it was polite to everyone. I'll tell you a story of a farmer's wife who made all sorts of mistakes and hundreds of years ago."

"Please do," said Bobby, delighted at the prospect of a story.

"A long while ago, you know, England and Ireland and Scotland and Wales were all different countries. And even England was divided. The Saxons lived in what is now England, and they fought amongst each other, very often."

"But after a while they settled down peacefully, and then what happened? The Danes from across the sea in Denmark invaded their country and made war on them. They conquered the northern part of England and it was called Danialand. But they had never conquered the part south of the Thames where the Saxons lived."

"Now at this time there grew up a fine, strong, valiant and honorable man, who became king of the Saxons. His name was Alfred and he drove the Danes back until they were bound to make a peace with him, which they did not care for very much."

"But once before he had beaten the Danes back, they defeated King Alfred in a battle and he was obliged to flee for his life."

"One day it was cold and dreary and Alfred was worn out with fighting. He ached in every bone of his body, so when he saw a farmer's cottage he knocked at the door and begged for food and shelter."

"The farmer's wife told him that he could come in, but that he would have to work for his food and help her husband tend his cows. Then she said that he might warm himself and sit by the fire and watch her bake cakes."

"So the good housewife went on busily baking her cakes and the

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Althea Michaels.
"THE day of miracles is done," I shake my head and say, "No more miracles will come again," we say, and do not see the miracle of springtime rain that wakes the sleeping earth, the miracle of April's call that stirs the dreaming seed and brings the linnets' refrain to still our spirit's need, the miracle, unfolding still, that with man's self began, of the sublime, unconquered will that moves the climber, man. So many miracles we see, they crowd on every hand, so many a lovely mystery upon the sea and land."

king at these dreaming by the fire. He was planning how he could defeat the Danes in battle and never noticed that the farmer's wife had left the room and forgot that she had asked him to watch the cakes while she was gone."

"There sat the king dreaming of conquering his enemy and saving his country from being overrun by the Danes, and there baked the cakes, getting drier and drier and more parched and more parched."

"So the good housewife went on busily baking her cakes and the

It's a Court of Politics, Not Justice. Americans, Beware!

The League of Nations and the World Court have just given an example of their work that should put every sane and patriotic American on his guard. Between them they are attempting to settle the long-standing and bitter dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the rich province of Mosul with its grain and oil.

The dispute had its origins in the bad old days of secret treaties. It is being settled in as cold-bloodedly a political way as any diplomatic conference of other days ever parcelled out territorial riches as the spoils of war. Yet it is being settled under the resounding names of the Court of International Justice and the League of Nations.

The Turks were jockeyed into a position where they must accept such a decision or be "outlawed" by the nations in the League, through the forehandedness of British troops and the assurances of British statesmen that the League's decision would never be made without Turkey's consent.

It may possibly be that Court and League would never jockey powerful America into such a position. But were America a member of the League today or adherent to the League's Court, she would be called upon to help enforce a decision that not only seems to violate all principles of international right, but to fly in the face of the interests of America's own citizens. She would be constantly confronted by the dilemma of either denouncing the sham and high-sounding excellences of Court and League or of submitting to them.

Turkey was forced into this position because she was assured that such teeth as the League and Court have would never—no, never—be used to bite her. It is very much like what the advocates of the League told America in 1919 about Article X and other articles of the Covenant. It is more like what the wolf told Little Red Riding Hood—"Big eyes to see you, my dear; big ears to hear you" and then, in the end, "Big teeth to eat you up!"

The Court has now passed this dispute back to the Council of the League. It acted not at all on the merits of the dispute. It merely said the League Council's action on the merits was final and binding and that Turkey could have no voice in that decision. Explicitly it deprives Britain of a voice in the decision, too. But here are the nations on the Council who will have a voice: France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Brazil, Spain, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Uruguay.

Would any Turkish statesman with a sane sense of patriotism irretrievably confide the vital interests of his government and people that group of nations when those vital interests clash with the interests of Britain and her oil barons?

The decision will be reached on no grounds of justice. It will be reached on grounds of expediency. Will the British or the Turkish view of the expedient way to dispose of Mosul and its millions prevail?

The history of this dispute goes back to May, 1916, when the secret Sykes-Picot treaty split the territory then under the Turkish Sultan among England, France and Russia. England's only juridical claim to the territory rests upon that secret treaty, upon the actual occupation of Mosul by her troops after the Turkish Armistice, and upon a dicker with the French at Versailles in February, 1919. The government which the Turkish people support never had a voice in this disposal of a province that had been Turkish since 1534 A.D. In August, 1920, the Allies signed the Treaty of Sevres with the already tottering government of the Sultan. Months before the Turkish Nationalists had signed a pact among themselves, pledging to the people the recovery of Turkish territory, including Constantinople and Mosul. Three months later the Turkish Nationalists threw out the Sultan and took Constantinople.

Three years later the Allies, headed by Lord Curzon, decided to negotiate peace with this real government of Turkey, headed by Ismet Pasha at Ankara.

The English troops still held, and still hold, Mosul. This was the one point about which Lord Curzon and the Turks could not agree. He proposed to leave it for separate and "friendly" negotiations, and if these failed to take it to the League.

The Turks hesitated. They signed the Chester concessions. Perhaps that frightened our British friends. At any rate Lord Curzon assured the Turks that the League would not settle Mosul without their consent—and look at the scheme they are now asked to give their consent to!

The League itself has determined that there are no ethnographical or juridical grounds on which the territory can be awarded. A League commission investigated Mosul and, though a plebiscite had been promised the Moslems, the commission reported that it was "unwise" to hold one, but that it believed most of the people of Mosul wanted to be attached to Iraq, England's dummy.

The Turk may or may not be deserving of sympathetic consideration. The British may be able to exploit Mosul oil more satisfactorily than the American Admiral Chester and his friends can. But the only claim of the British to Mosul rests on the chicanery of the secret treaties of 1915 and the presence of her troops within reaching distance of the rich oil fields of Mosul when the Armistice was signed at Mudros in 1918.

And the Court and the League, despite their high-sounding new names, proceed to settle the matter in exactly the spirit of 1915 and 1918.

The United States has shown it can do better in settling disputes in South America.

Weighty Evidence

MAJOR-GENERAL MASON M. PATRICK cannot be accused of prejudice against major-generals. He is one himself. His report is unequivocally for the establishment of an independent air force.

General Patrick is a flying general. Many of the great military commanders of the past have been cavalry leaders.

The air service is the cavalry—and more—of modern warfare. Only, there never was the prejudice against the cavalrymen of other days that the general staff has evinced towards the flying men of this day.

Uncle Sam knows which is worth most, now that the public has been shown by the records of the various investigations at Washington.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury
[Of New York apartments]
I now have two separate dining rooms. One for the husband and one for the wife.

This gives the married couple a chance to eat their meals in peace.

A husband can be as clumsy as a horse. When he eats by himself, he can't spoil anybody's breakfast.

The dining rooms are in different parts of the house and if he sets to complain about his wife's mess, he has to telephone her.

He doesn't feel like arguing, he doesn't have to answer the phone.

One woman had a husband who's easy in the morning that she talks to every day.

She sits his breakfast on the table and then phones for the police.

Two motorcycle cops always come up to the house while he drinks coffee.

He doesn't like what she serves him. He throws it at her. She has to take the trash to the street.

She took the handles off the cups so that he can't grab them so easily.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson
[Reg. U. S. Patent Office]
SHOULD YOU AGREE WITH ME? AND WHY SHOULD YOU ACT SO HOSTILE AND SUSPICIOUS IF I DON'T AGREE WITH YOU?

This fear of disagreement is a hangover of the old herd law which declared that all members of the herd must all alike and that if one member insisted on acting differently he was to be shunned or killed outright.

The day of the herd has passed. YOU MUST THINK FOR YOURSELF!

YOU MUST DISAGREE. YOU MUST BE ABLE TO FACE DISAGREEMENT AND KEEP YOUR HEAD!

Don't disagree out of mere selfishness. Think the problem over. Turn it about. Look at it from all sides. See how it interlocks with other problems. Then make up your mind about it yourself. Be ready to change if you meet a better argument, but also be ready to fight to the last ditch for your own viewpoint.

BUT DO IT ALL WITH A LAUGH. Face the disagreement as a game of brilliant conflict—an exciting venture. Don't act as if someone were trying to cheat and betray you. Set your mental teeth in every thing. Cling hard before you accept.

Disagree with the gang. Disagree with yourself. By all means disagree with me. Don't swallow anything I say whole. I don't.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland
Helen always said my eyes were blue.

And often swore my lips were sweet! No doubt he said the same to you—Or any girl he chanced to meet.

He always swore my eyes were sweet. And often said my lips were real! But, why these airy words repeat? For, that alas, was all he said!

Cheap sentiment, like cheap perfume, is often largely "a la mode" and never "lasting."

Love and marriage, like the gods of the ancients, are always demanding reneging on their promised rewards.

It breaks a boy's heart to discover that he has washed a little more of his neck than was necessary—and it breaks a man's heart to discover that he has confessed a little more of his indiscretion than was necessary.

Many a man has been caught in the quickness of matrimony, when trying to take a short cut to the Boulevard by way of the Primrose Path.

Most men would rather give you a good "cally" than tell the honest truth, even when the truth hangs to be a better excuse.

Three Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

THESE years of civil war in the United States left seeds of animosity in the hearts of two people of the North and of the South. Each side bore resentment against the other for the loss of dear lives and for the destruction of property.

It took many years for that feeling to disappear completely but it did eventually. And it was the action of the sympathetic mothers of the South, who distributed their flowers over the graves of men and women alike, that established the holiday that was to wipe out the last vestiges of hostility.

Decoration Day is the holiday set apart in memory of those who fell in the Civil War. North and South alike, men and women cease from their daily duties and children are released from school to bring their tribute of flowers to the graves of the country's soldiers.

It was many years after the end of the war when May 30 was finally declared a legal holiday throughout most of the country. In those states where it is not legally recognized, it is generally observed anyway.

Since young Americans from the North and from the South have given their lives during the World War, now the ancient rite of Decoration Day has taken on a new significance.

SOME MEN are very LONELY and SOME MEN are very SELFISH.

THEY FIRST KNOW they are LONELY BECAUSE THEY CAN FEEL IT. BUT FEW MEN know they are SELFISH.

BECAUSE SELFISH PEOPLE ARE ALWAYS A LITTLE BLUNTLY. IF THEY SHARP THEY MIGHT CONNECT THE TWO. IT IS NOT GIVING TO THEM GRATEFUL. IT IS SEEKING their point of view. UNDERSTANDING they are TRYING TO DO THEIR BEST and HELPING THEM TO DO IT. WE Seldom get back From the SAME person what WE GIVE. THE MISTAKE is to EXPECT IT. LIFE is a CIRCLE. DUTIES OF PARENTS TO THE CHILD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PARENTHOOD is a live topic nowadays. More people than ever before in the world's history seem to be talking about the duties of parents.

The whole question of bringing up children and the parent-child relationship are receiving new light.

A recent play, "Are Parents People?" asks a very searching question, and a distinguished Boston professor writes of "Parents Who Haven't Grown Up" in a monthly magazine.

New ideas about parents and children are being given to the world. For these we are indebted to various people—to psychologists, to educators, to sociologists, and others.

Even parents have become psychologists and educators and sociologists on their own account. They have decided that since they bring up children they are the ones who ought to know most about them.

For this reason child study groups among parents are growing and should be encouraged. They are a good thing. Two fathers on a train the other day, both holding copies of a newspaper open at the financial page, were overheard talking about bringing up children.

We are told that the child who is unhappy may be suffering from creative impulses that are thwarted. The child who has no parents is always attracting attention to itself when company is around is probably starved by legitimate opportunities to perform.

Children need more chance to build, to do things, to feel the thrill of successful achievement in one way or another.

Fears, we are informed, may be the result of specific experiences in the earliest years.

There are some of the things psychologists are telling us. Discipline is as much a topic of discussion as ever. Obedience may not be the virtue we have always thought it, we are told, for the freedom of the child is an object of intelligent parents these days.

Parentalism has undergone many changes. The dark closet, the frightening of children, the beating of the helpless innocents—all these are frowned upon. In their place come reasoning with children, the light of explanation, treating children like grown-ups, and perhaps some judicious form of deprivation.

There are some people who hope that some day the last spanking will be administered to children.

HEALTH AND CITIES OF THE FUTURE

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THESE dreamed-of cities of the future, spread over thousands of square miles and sheltering tens of millions of inhabitants, will, it is to be hoped, be forever free from the curses of city life that had already become familiar in the days of Babylon, viz., overcrowding in insanitary quarters.

Rapid means of transportation are making such widespread cities possible dwelling places for everybody. Our modern education in city science allows can secure to the public the improvement in healthfulness that ought to follow.

Merely turning the city into a child-study country district, and not in itself insure the absence of insanitary conditions, for it would not be difficult to find districts in the open country as bad in that respect as some of the most noxious quarters of old, overcrowded cities.

Best Ways of Living.

The public must have a sensitive sanitary conscience to protect itself, and that can only be developed by knowledge of the best ways of living in populous communities.

How lamentably rare such knowledge appears to be is indicated by the present experience of the sanitary authorities of the City of Paris.

They have chartered the city with reference to its unsanitary "hot," or "hot," and this chart is dotted over on the south-eastern half, including some of the oldest quarters of the old capital, with insalubrious spots, that are not agreeable to look upon when one knows that they are called "hot miasmas" (miasma, a word on account of the prevalence of them in the unsanitary conditions, especially, it would seem, in the hot miasmas).

It is true that, as a result of the study of eighty thousand dwellings in connection with the existence of such miasmas, has reached those in a city of gardens there could be no "hot miasmas."

three conclusions, which, in themselves, would seem to offer a burning issue in popular sanitary education.

"First, the frequency of deaths from tuberculosis is proportional to the height of the houses, and is directly related to the open space that surrounds them."

"Second, tuberculosis is more prevalent on the lower than on the upper stories."

"Third, at several points in Paris there is marked localities of the miasma."

Making such facts known, however, does not lead to much improvement in the situation. The "hot miasmas" remain terrible ravages are noted in them; the only remedy is the demolition of the infected houses, but indifference and opposition prevent the accomplishment of the work. The hygienists have undertaken a "fight," a struggle against seventeen of the insanitary lots, inhabited by 18,000 people, but "the enormous difficulties and especially the administrative delays, paralyze the effort."

Chicken in Pot

The famous King Henry of Navarre wished that every one of his subjects should have "his chicken in the pot" every Sunday. His was the days of foul and crowded little cities, whose death rate had already frightened a modern hygienist dropped down into the midst of one of them. No lights, no pavement, no sewers, no sanitation, a city that was nothing but a breeding of self-neglectful humanity, upon which plagues descended and raged like hurricanes of death.

Today the people in King, and the wish for itself should be that every family have its home and its garden, even though it live in a city. Said France's ancient "God Almighty first planned a garden. And, indeed, it is the purest and the greatest pleasure. It is the greatest refreshment to the spirit of man, without which buildings and palaces are but gross handicrafts."

In a city of gardens there could be no "hot miasmas."

WHEN SALARIED MAN WEDS RICH MAN'S DAUGHTER

A young man writes: "What shall I do about marrying a young woman of well-to-do parents, living as I do in a small city and just starting in a profession?"

This young man will make good because he has the right stuff in him.

But he fears the living which he could provide would be in too sharp contrast to the home from which the young girl comes.

It is true that a girl from a home of luxury, whose life, to a great extent, has been wrapped up in the things which only a big city provides, will seldom be contented for long with a husband whose salary is moderate and whose place of residence is dull and unsanitary.

It is foolish for such a girl to think that the glamour with which she is surrounded will not fade. It will. It is bound to change from a happy, buoyant, extravagantly liberal and carefree youth to a man with responsibilities. Cares will weigh on him and ruin his life in his playfulness, and the girl will receive less attention in consequence.

To make a living is a serious job for any man.
